Did you know?

- Easter baskets are often lined with a shredded material called Easter grass, usually made of plastic or paper.
- The custom of filling a basket for Easter is thought to echo older springtime traditions of gathering and gift-giving.
- In some countries children believe a rabbit fills their basket, while in others, church bells are said to deliver the treats instead.
- Wicker, one of the most traditional basket materials, is made by weaving flexible plant material like willow around a frame.
