Herbs & Spices — Answer Key

Did you know?

- Vanilla, one of the most popular flavors in the world, comes from the pods of a specific type of orchid.
- Black pepper, one of the most widely traded spices in history, was once valuable enough to be used as a form of currency.
- Cinnamon comes from the inner bark of certain trees, dried and rolled into the familiar stick shape.
- Fresh herbs and dried herbs of the same plant can taste noticeably different, since drying concentrates some flavors while losing others.
