Ice and Frost — Answer Key

Did you know?

- Frost forms when water vapor in the air turns directly into ice crystals on a cold surface, skipping the liquid stage entirely.
- Hoarfrost, the feathery, branching ice pattern often seen on grass and windows, forms under especially calm, humid, cold conditions.
- An ice glaze, the smooth, clear coating left by freezing rain, forms when rain falls as liquid but freezes instantly on contact with a surface below freezing.
- Icicles typically form as meltwater drips and refreezes repeatedly, gradually building the icicle's shape one thin, frozen layer at a time.
